

These unsolicited calls are harassing. They interrupt the home routine and are particularly disruptive to those who work at home. The New Jersey Consumer Protection Act has been an effective solution to this harassment problem.